THE SEA MAID

By Ronald MacDonald

Though the publishers have had a number of successes since "The Prisoner of Zenda," "The Sea Maid" is the first book since which the compositors became so interested in that they asked for copies, and the advance orders for it are double those for most new novels.

How the Dean of Beckminster, his prim wife, his beautiful daughter, an English lord, a "Raffles" of the sea, an adventuress, a vagrant actor, a French violinist, and others, are marooned on a wild uncharted island in the Pacific, told in a way that gives fantasy substance. ($1.50.)

THE NONCHALANTE

By Stanley Olmsted

The talented young American pianist, Mr. Olmsted, knows his Leipsic, where he learned his art, well, even though he may call it "Plissestadt," in this story of American student life in that most musical of towns. In Dixie Bilton, the American "operettensängerin," he has drawn a unique and tantalizing character. ($1.25.)

THE LARKY FURNACE

By Hildegard Brooks

Author of "Daughters of Desperation"

A happy, whimsical book about the experiences of Sue Betty, with the larky furnace who would go out o' nights, and her other strange adventures. (With cover and illustrations by PETER NEWELL. $1.25.)

THE GIRLS OF GARDENVILLE

By Carroll Watson Rankin

Author of "Dandelion Cottage"

Another book for girls, full of the moving incident and wholesome humor that bid fair to make the author's "Dandelion Cottage" a contemporary classic. (Illustrated. $1.50.)

IMMIGRATION and its Effects upon the United States

By Prescott F. Hall

Secretary of the Immigration Restriction League

In the important new series, "American Public Problems," edited by Dr. RALPH CURTIS RINGWALT, of the New York Bar. (393 pp., $1.50 net. By mail, $1.62.)

. The next volume in this series will be GEO. H. HAYNES' ELECTION OF SENATORS (March.)

THE NEGRO AND THE NATION

By George S. Merriam

An account of the negro question from the slave ship to Tuskegee, which is both entertaining and scholarly. ($1.75 net. By mail, $1.92.)

STUDIES IN AMERICAN TRADE- UNIONISM

J. H. Hollander }
G. E. Barnett } Editors

Twelve papers by graduate students and officers of Johns Hopkins University, the results of original investigations of representative Trade Unions. There are also chapters on Employers' Associations, the Knights of Labor, and the American Federation of Labor. (380 pp., $2.75 net. By mail, $2.98.)

. A leaflet on the Publishers' books on public problems and economics sent free on application.

HEREDITY IN ROYALTY

By Dr. Frederick Adams Woods

An interesting and handsome book. A consideration of some 3300 persons, presenting an interesting estimate of the mental and moral status of all Modern Royal families, and illustrated with over one hundred portraits. (312 pp., 8vo, $3.00 net. By mail, $3.18.)

NATURE AND HEALTH

By Dr. Edward Curtis

A straightforward, terse book by this well-known New York physician on the care of the body and the home. ($1.25 net. By mail, $1.37.)

GEOLOGY, Vols. II. and III.

By Prof. Thomas C. Chamberlin and Prof. Rollin D. Salisbury

These concluding volumes of this monumental GEOLOGY are devoted to "Earth History," and in them Professor Chamberlin elaborates his weighty criticism of the nebular hypotheses (With some 575 illustrations. 692 + 624 pp., 8vo, $8.00 net, for both volumes—not sold separately.)

SPRING ORDER LIST, 1906

READY IN APRIL.

Nicanor, Teller of Tales

By C. Bryson Taylor. With five plates in full color and decorations in tint by the Kinneys. Large 12mo, $1.50.

In a general way this romance will belong to the class of "decorated fiction" which we have made such a successful feature during recent seasons. The action occurs in Britain at the time when the Saxons were beginning their inroads upon the Romans, and this period has furnished splendid opportunities for bold and picturesque treatment by the author and the illustrators. The pictures by the Kinneys are far superior to any of their previous work.

READY IN APRIL.

For the Soul of Rafael

By Marah Ellis Ryan. With unusual photographic illustrations and decorations in tint. Large 12mo, $1.50.

This new book by the author of "Told in the Hills" is certain to have an immediate success. It is a glowing and picturesque romance of Old California, with a marked dramatic quality. The characters are all of the fine aristocratic Spanish type, at a period when Americans were regarded as godless invaders. It will be found a story of strong passions and a splendid renunciation.

READY IN MARCH.

Dick Pentreath

By Katharine Tynan, author of "The Dear Irish Girl," "Julia," etc. With four illustrations in pen-and-ink by George Alfred Williams. Large 12mo, $1.25.

This new English story has more popular qualities than any of Miss Tynan's many successful novels. She can always be counted on for a delightful expression of humor and sentiment which few writers in her field can equal.

READY IN MARCH.

Old Tales from Rome

By Alice Zimmern, author of "Old Tales from Greece." Fully illustrated. 12mo, $1.25.

A popular presentation of some of the famous myths and legends. The book is divided into three parts, the first being given to "The Wanderings of Æneas," the second to "Early Days of Rome," and the third to "The Transformation," which includes the stories of "Acis and Galatea," "King Midas," "Philemon and Baucis," etc.

The Glory Seekers

The Romance of Would-Be Founders of Empire in the Early Days of the Southwest. By William Horace Brown. Illustrated. Square 8vo, $1.50 net.

These are tales of the daring adventurers who became notorious as the leaders of filibustering expeditions into the region which now forms the State of Texas. The author, William Horace Brown, knows his subject and endeavors to present a truthful account, with the statement that "justice and patriotism were not always the prompters of their actions." Without consideration of the motives of these turbulent freebooters, there is no question but that their exploits were dramatic and picturesque, the narrative of which is not only instructive but makes highly entertaining reading.

READY MARCH 17.

Hawaiian Yesterdays

By Dr. Henry M. Lyman. With numerous illustrations from photographs. Large 8vo, $2.00 net.

A delightfully written account of what a boy saw of life in the Islands in the early '40's. The author was a distinguished Chicago physician, whose father was a well-known missionary in Hawaii. His book is a most interesting account of early conditions in a part of the world in which Americans are becoming more and more interested.

NOW READY.

"Ground Arms!"

A Romance of European War. By Baroness Bertha von Suttner. New edition, with portrait of the author. 12mo, $1.25.

The wide publicity given the Baroness von Suttner's "Die Waffen Nieder!" which won the Nobel Peace Prize for 1905 ($40,000), has made it necessary to bring out a re-issue of this admirable translation. "Ground Arms!" has been not unaptly called the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" of the peace propaganda. It is, like Mrs. Stowe's famous book, a work of fiction, in which the horrors and barbarities of modern warfare are brought out in a striking way, and is supposed to have exerted the greatest influence in bringing about The Hague Tribunal.

Future Life

In the Light of Ancient Wisdom and Modern Science.
By Louis Elbe. With a portrait. 12mo, $1.20 net.

This is the authorized translation of the famous book which has been creating so wide a stir in scientific and religious circles throughout France, under the title "La Vie Future." It will be received with wide-spread interest here, and will arouse very general discussion. The subject is one which is engaging not only scientists, but laymen, in ever-increasing numbers. This volume offers for the first time a complete presentation of all the available evidence hitherto to be found only in the most scattered and inaccessible forms.

READY MARCH 28.

Remenyi, Musician and Man

An Appreciation. By Gwendolyn Kelley and George P. Upton. With portraits. 8vo, $1.75 net.

Miss Kelley was an intimate friend and devoted admirer of the famous Hungarian wizard of the violin, and he intrusted to her a number of biographical documents. To these have been added others contributed at her solicitation by his personal friends and members of his family, also some of his characteristic letters and literary sketches, the whole forming a volume of uncommon charm and a valuable work of reference. Remenyi's personality was a many-sided one, his associates and friends the greater figures in the world of music, and the publication of his life-story is an event of distinct importance.

READY APRIL 2.

Literature of Libraries

17th and 18th Centuries. Edited by John Cotton Dana, Librarian of the Newark Public Library. Sold only in sets. Regular edition, limited to 250 sets, $12.00 net. Large paper edition, limited to 25 sets, $25.00 net.

Vol. I. "Concerning the Duties and Qualifications of a Librarian."
Vol. II. "The Reformed Library Keeper." A series of six reprints of rare and out-of-print works on libraries and their management. The primary object of the series is to bring within the reach of persons interested, and especially of librarians, the early authorities on these subjects. The volumes in this series will be beautifully printed at the Merrymount Press.

Panama to Patagonia

The Isthmian Canal and the West Coast Countries of South America. By Charles M. Pepper, author of "Tomorrow in Cuba." With new maps and numerous illustrations. Large 8vo, $2.50 net.

The author is a distinguished newspaper man who has travelled extensively, especially in the Latin-American republics, and who is a member of the Permanent Pan-American Railway Committee. His book aims to point out to the American commercial world the enormous advantages coming to this country from South America through the construction of the Panama Canal.

The Ghost in Hamlet

And Other Essays in Comparative Literature. By Dr. Maurice Francis Egan. 16mo, $1.00 net.

As instructor in English at the Catholic University of Washington, Dr. Egan is well known both as a thorough scholar and a charming writer. These essays will be found admirable for class use, and notably interesting to the general reader of discerning taste. The other titles are: Some Phases of Shakespearean Interpretation; Some Pedagogical Uses of Shakespeare; Lyricism in Shakespeare's Comedies; A Definition of Literature; The Ebb and Flow of Romance; The Greatest of Shakespeare's Contemporaries; Imitators of Shakespeare; The Puzzle of Hamlet.

READY IN APRIL.

Success in Letter-Writing

Business and Social. By Sherwin Cody, author of "The World's Best" series, "The Cody System of Business Correspondence," etc. 12mo, $1.00 net.

Mr. Cody's qualifications for this work are unique. In this volume is offered a modern, up-to-date handbook, different from any heretofore presented, which will answer the requirements of both the business man and the social correspondent.

The Truth About Tolna

By the Author of
"The Helmet of Navarre."

BERTHA RUNKLE

A NEW story by the author of "The Helmet of Navarre," wherein she proves that there is as much romance in new Manhattan as in old Paris—a swiftly-moving chronicle of New York persons and personages. The action moves at a great pace, steadily gathering momentum through a series of kaleidoscopic situations and complications which keep the reader amused and interested to the end. There is a five-sided battle-royal between three men for the hearts of two bewitching American girls. Under the author's keen insight and ingenuity, the same situations set one man face to face with tragedy and provide the other with a farce. Both heroines have not only beauty and wealth, but mind and heart and judgment. The re-action of these four strong characters upon each other supplies the original and amusing plot and incidents, which turn upon the pivotal point of "The Truth About Tolna"—Tolna being a famous opera singer. The underlying purpose of the book is serious, while the complications are constantly amusing; and the story, as a whole, is a masterpiece of literary workmanship.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish next month a novel entitled "The Genius," by Margaret Potter, said to be founded upon the life of a famous composer. They are printing a new edition of "The Comedies of William Shakespeare," with Edwin A. Abbey's exquisite illustrations. "The Comedies" are issued in four large volumes, beautifully bound in half-vellum. Mr. Abbey is at present engaged with the illustrations for Shakespeare's tragedies, which are appearing from time to time in the pages of Harper's Magazine.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will publish at once Morley Roberts's new novel, "The Idlers," dealing with the life of the idle rich in present-day London society. They will publish early in March "The Cruise of the Conqueror, being the Further Adventures of the Motor Pirate," by G. Sidney Paternoster, whose former book, "The Motor Pirate," met with a favorable reception. In the new book the "highwayman" turns "pirate," and employs a motor boat in his pursuit, holds up an ocean steamer and does other adventurous and incredible things.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY publish this week "The Nature and Origin of Living Matter," by H. Charlton Bastian, author of the "Study of Heterogenesis," "A Treatise on Aphasia and Other Speech Defects," etc.; a fourth, revised, and enlarged edition of Bryan Donkin's "Gas, Oil, and Air Engines;" also, "Dairy Analysis," by Henry Droop Richmond, author of "Dairy Chemistry." In the way of fiction they have just issued "The Adventures of a Supercargo," by Louis Becke, whose stirring stories of adventure in the South Seas have given him indisputable title to first place among historians and romancers of that wildest portion of the world.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish this week Frances Hodgson Burnett's story, "The Dawn of To-Morrow," which created a great deal of comment and discussion when it appeared serially last fall in Scribner's Magazine; a work on "The Development of Palestine Exploration," by Frederick Jones Bliss, an intensely interesting account of explorations and explorers in Palestine and Syria by one who has taken an active part in the work; also, "String Figures," by Caroline Furness Jayne, a unique and extraordinary book describing games played all over the world with a simple string loop, the accounts of which have been gathered by Mrs. Jayne from an entirely new field, and illustrated by over a thousand diagrams.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish on the 28th inst. "A Lame Dog's Diary," by S. Macnaughton; "The Hill," by Horace Vachell; "Americans of 1776," by James Schouler; and "The Art of Keeping Well," by Dr. Cordelia A. Greene, all fully described by us last week. They will publish at the same time "The Declaration of Independence, Its History," by J. H. Hazleton, based exclusively on original sources; "The Launching of a University," a collection of addresses and essays on various topics, educational and historical, by Dr. Daniel Coit Gilman; also the following new Phoenix titles: "The Earth Trembled," by E. P. Roe; "A Singer from the Sea," by Amelia E. Barr; "Mildred's Boys and Girls," by Martha Finley; "A Little Girl in Old Chicago," by Amanda M. Douglas; "Wilby's Dan," by William Wallace Cook; and "Stories from Homer," by Alfred J. Church.

In the three years which have elapsed since the third edition of this work went to press, there have been very few sensational changes in electric power transmission. Plants have multiplied and higher voltages have become common without any radical innovations in general practice. There has been very considerable improvement in station accessories and in details of construction, especially of the line. It is the minor changes that have made a new edition imperative. Much descriptive matter which had to do with things which are now obsolete and without historical importance has been eliminated.

A mission to the museums of Europe to collect and copy their Egyptian monuments in order to make these documents available for the great Berlin "Egyptian dictionary," now in preparation, gave Prof. Breasted an opportunity to copy from the originals all the historical documents in Europe relating to Egypt. This compilation of "Ancient records" will be in four volumes, the first of which is now ready, and will contain all the written documents from which we draw our knowledge of the career of the Nile valley people as a nation until the advent of the Persians in 525 B.C. Each document has been translated into modern English and is accompanied by numerous notes and introductions.

The subject is considered in seven chapters, namely: 1, Of the nature of humility; 2, Of the surrender of the will; 3, Of submission; 4, Of meekness; 5, Of the security of the humble; 6, Of the devotion of the humble; 7, Of the exaltation of the humble. By the author of "Anima Christi."

Brierley, J., ["J. B.," pseud.] The eternal religion. N. Y., T: Whittaker, [1906.] 8+310 p. D. cl., *$1.40 net.

Author of "The common life," "Ourselves and the universe," etc. There is growing in the leading minds of our time a conception of the Eternal Religion, of which the earlier theologies were advance sketches. We of this age, being in possession of the results of all past strivings after truth, can recognize religion as a principle and a history with its highest expression in Christianity. The author deals with the principles of Christianity, the leading positions it has taken for validity and permanence and its applications in the life of to-day. He believes that Divine revelation should not be restricted to certain times or to a particular order of ideas, but that it is now going on in science as well as religion that "science and revelation are really the same thing."

Brown, Vincent. The sacred cup. N. Y., Putnam, 1906. c. '05, '06. 3+331 p. D. cl., *$1.50.

Plot turns upon the old rubric of the Church of England Communion service: "And if any of those be an open and notorious evil liver, or have done any wrong to his neighbors by word or deed, the curate, having knowledge thereof, shall call him and advertise him, that in any wise he presume not to come to the Lord's table until he have openly declared himself to have truly repented." A Christlike rector discovers the father of a babe to whom he has given the protection of his rectory. He is among the well-born of the little parish. He is warned, but comes to the Lord's table and the rector does his duty, with far-reaching results.

 The material of the book was first employed by the author, who is Professor of the Philosophy of Religion, University of Chicago, in a course of lectures delivered at Harvard in the summers of 1902 and 1903. The rise, development and disintegration of Christianity as authority-religion (Supernaturalism) are traced; also the history and critique of naturalism are summarized. Thus Christianity is defined as religion of the spirit, with a view to determining whether the highest spirit of the modern world can and will call itself Christian. The word "finality" is used in the title in the sense of the perfect, the consummate, last because perfect.

Record of the short brilliant career of Cecil Foster Seymour Vandeleur, born in London in 1869; studied at Eton; later at Sandhurst; then commissioned in the Scots Guards. His energy was untiring; his efficiency remarkable in all he undertook. He saw service in the Egyptian campaigns under Kitchener, in Nigeria, in Uganda and finally in the Boer War, where he made a fine record. He was killed at the age of thirty-two by a band of train robbers in South Africa. Col. Maxse gives informing reviews of African history and the part Great Britain has played there.

Mill, J: Stuart. The subjection of women. New ed.; ed., with introductory analysis, by Stanton Coit. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906. 128 p. S. cl., *40 c. net.

The first edition of this essay was published in 1869; it has been out of print for a number of years. In issuing this new edition the editor, Prof. Coit, speaks of the manner in which the first edition was sent out—"the reader," he says, "was not furnished with any mechanical means to aid him in analyzing the argument and keeping the main lines of the thought clearly before him. There were no table of contents, no headings to the chapters, and no divisions of the chapters into sections." To supply these defects, the editor precedes the essay with an outline of the argument, divided into chapters. He also shows that the legal status of women has materially changed since 1869.

Notice is taken of all incidents of legal interest which occurred during the recent China-Japanese, South African and Russo-Japanese wars. Appendix contains the text in French of the nine law-making treaties, the Foreign enlistment act, Naval prize act, and Prize courts act. General index refers to both volumes.

Ostwald, Wilhelm. Individuality and immortality. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1906. [F.] 4+74 p. D. (Ingersoll lectures, 1906.) cl., 75 c. net.

The author is regarded as one of the founders of the modern science of physical chemistry. He is professor in the University of Leipzig and has recently given a series of lectures at Harvard in exchange with Professor Peabody. He here discusses the subject of the future life as he would deal with a problem of chemistry, giving the latest knowledge of facts bearing on mind and matter and showing that our relations to one another, and to humanity in general, are similar in kind though different in degree to the relations which can be demonstrated as existing between matter and energy. He thinks that the mortality of the individual is one of the larger factors in the immortality of the race.

It was her step-daughter that first made Mary Whiting, the widow of two plain Chicago merchants, restless and ambitious for social position. The beautiful mother and the plain step-daughter traveled through Europe and became "climbers" backed by $50,000 a year each. The details show the different characters of the women. All old associations go down before rank and titles and the end finds the ladies married to an English lord and a French marquis with America well lost.

A story for Catholic readers by the author of "That man's daughter." The plot turns upon the conversion of a young man to Catholicism and his marriage to a Catholic girl. In consequence his rich aunt who has brought him up to be her heir changes her will, leaving all to her brother and his children. On her deathbed she regrets what she has done, and adds a codicil to her will, again making the young man her heir. No one knows of this codicil but the brother's wife, and she suppresses it, that her own children may have the money. All kinds of trouble overtake her, and she believes the money accursed. She confesses in the end and justice is done.

Roseman, Mary Blanche, and Mills, Mary W. The dictation spelling book. St. Louis, Mo., published by the author, [Mary W. Mills,] 1905. c. 141 p. 16°, cl., 40 c.

While the chief object of the dictations is the teaching of correct spelling, there are other distinct and definite aims. Besides a number of familiar words, which already form part of a child's speaking vocabulary and are valuable only as words to be correctly spelled, each selection also presents entirely new words, which are valuable not only as spelling material, but also serve to enrich his vocabulary. That they are presented in their proper relation, as used by the best authors, and not as isolated words, totally unrelated, is one of the points in the book's favor.

In his book on "Poverty" Robert Hunter made an estimate of the number of underfed children in New York City. This led to much investigation and many facts discovered are here given. A great part of the book is devoted to facts about children who work for money under the legal age and the resulting evils to themselves and their parents. The life in factories, mills and mines and the remedies for existing conditions are studied with fairness. The problem of poverty as it affects childhood is exhaustively presented. The daughter of Henry iv. of France and Marie de Medici, wife of Charles I. of England, and mother of Charles II. and James II., was so important a person in the history of England of the 17th century that it is surprising so few biographies of her have been written. Yet her letters to her husband and sister, state papers and memoirs of the day furnish ample sources of information concerning her. The author gives here an account of her life, the general history of the time being introduced only as it related to her, and he shows why a woman so dearly loved to the end by her husband and her children, should have been cordially hated by her English subjects and held responsible for many of the king's mistakes.

With a great deal of quiet humor is told the story of Mary Wogg, spinster, often called by disrespectful youngsters "Aunt Polly Wogg." The motherly instincts were strong in Miss Wogg, and she adopted in succession a little baby girl who only lived a short time, and afterward a bright boy. Her life is made happy through her love for others. Her good deeds are many—her helpful hand straightening out more than one apparently hopelessly tangled life.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE DIAL COMPANY, of Chicago, has started a monthly index of periodicals, entitled What's in the Magazines. It gives the contents of nineteen of the leading magazines in classified form.

KARSLAKE & Co., London, have just brought out the first part of the third volume of "Book Auction Records," edited by Frank Karslake, covering the period from October 1 to December 31, 1905, and recording in all 4401 titles arranged in one alphabet.

JOSEPH BAER & Co., Frankfurt-on-the-Main, have just published a catalogue of the private library of Schopenhauer, which they have for sale, under the title of "Schopenhauer-Bibliothek: Original handschriften Schopenhauers, 166 Bände aus seiner Privatbibliothek, seine Schriften, Briefe und Gespräche, Literatur über ihn." The volume contains Schopenhauer's ex-libris and five facsimiles.

IN a letter to The Dial E. F. McPike makes a plea for the establishment in this country of "a kind of bibliographic clearing house." The first thing he would have done by some such central bureau would be the compilation of a new bibliography of bibliographies. Hopes for the creation of just the right aids to development in this matter have long been entertained. Mr. McPike refers to the announcement made by President Needham, of the George Washington University in 1904, "of the proposed establishment of a department of bibliography and library science, as soon as negotiations could be completed, having in view an endowment of $200,000 with which to start the work." Meanwhile, however, bibliographers must have patience. As Mr. McPike remarks, the thing "depends wholly upon the generosity of intelligent, representative citizens having the requisite means." The field is a fine one for some beneficent man of wealth.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 24, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

IMPORTATION OF COPYRIGHT BOOKS.

IN the preparation of the draft of the copyright code to be submitted to Congress, no questions have been more difficult to settle than those connected with the importation of books copyrighted in this country. It has been agreed on all sides that the dangers of the forfeiture of copyright by non-compliance with mere technicalities, so serious a danger in the present law, shall be removed; for instance, that to avoid the present uncertainty United States copyright notice should be required only on editions printed for use or sale within the United States. But on the extent to which foreign editions of copyrighted books should be imported under permission given in the law there has been serious divergence of opinion, especially between book publishers and librarians, which at one time threatened a deadlock that would perhaps block the proposed legislation on the floors of Congress.

There is little if any exception to the theory that unauthorized editions, that is, piracies, should be denied importation altogether. A few librarians have indeed emphasized their desire that a library should be permitted to import any kind of edition for purposes of record and comparison—but when this is illuminated by the analogy that a museum can scarcely ask to be allowed to acquire and exhibit a stolen gem for purposes of comparison with others in its collection, it seems evident that this is but a relic of the view held in this country before 1891, that literary property was not entitled to the protection accorded other property. That view has happily passed, and librarians generally, as represented by their official organization and representatives, concede that property rights should be respected, and therefore confine their attention to authorized editions, which they claim should be imported by libraries without restriction. The book publishers have taken exactly the contrary view, and naturally hold that the publisher who buys the American market should be entitled to that market, and that neither the price paid to the author for his market nor its value to the publisher who purchases it should be lessened by the possibility and serious probability of importations without the consent of the copyright proprietor.

It must be admitted that as property right in literary productions originates in their creation by the author, it is the author who is chiefly to be considered in the final arrangement. The statement from the American [authors'] Copyright League, printed in full elsewhere, gives no uncertain note on this point. It claims for authors full rights in their created property—that they may sell their property as they please, for any market and under any conditions. This of course negatives any right of importation without the author's consent, as is the case in England and other copyright countries. But the authors, in endeavoring to secure a better copyright system, have indicated their willingness to waive their rights in certain particulars, and the statement of the League is practically an outline of a compromise in which certain concessions have been made to the library interests and in other practical respects, and represents the basis of the compromise which has been arrived at by mutual concessions between publishers and librarians, to some extent under the mediations of representatives of the authors' league.

It will be noted that importations are to be permitted from the country of original authorship, which will enable libraries to import, for instance, original editions which may be more complete than the American reprint. It also permits importation of foreign editions so long as the American edition remains "o. p." It also permits the importation of copyright works in libraries bought abroad en bloc—all these being concessions in the interests of libraries. Incidentally it removes an annoyance to travellers by permitting the importation, also without author's consent, of copies brought by the returning traveller in personal baggage. These concessions, now accepted by the publishers, should not pass into the record without the comment that even these exceptions seriously interfere with the American market and will in some cases prevent the publication of American editions which would as a rule be cheaper than the English editions. We know, in fact, of a recent case in which an American publisher of high standing was invited by an English house to co-operate in the publication of an important work which possibly requires such co-operation to justify the enterprise. The American publisher replied that he would be glad to take a share in the responsibility but for the fact that American libraries are so much in the habit of purchasing international books through their English booksellers as seriously to impair the American market and in the case in question make an American edition impracticable. The new code proposes an ad interim period of twelve months for foreign publications in languages other than English, and of thirty days in the case of English works, the latter a feature not included in the ad interim law of last year. During the interim twelve months, editions in the original language may be imported, but this permission is not extended to English books for the thirty-day interim period, for the evident reason that this would suffice to supply the American market in good part and greatly reduce the possibilities for an American edition in the case of books by well-known authors or other popular books. It is for this reason that the interim period in the case of English books has been stated at thirty days instead of the period of "at least sixty days" advocated by the American [authors'] Copyright League.

In respect to periodicals that include copyright matter, it is proposed that their importation shall be permitted without restriction, provided the publication of copyrighted material is by arrangement with the author. Otherwise their importation is prohibited. It has been suggested that this would work unfavorably toward American subscribers for foreign periodicals which transgress the law. But it is always inconvenient not to be able to take another man's umbrella if you are out in the rain without one; in fact, property rights are inconvenient things anyhow, in some respects. The conductors of foreign periodicals will doubtless take due warning and omit pirated matter from their issues, if they desire American subscribers. Otherwise it would be practicable for an unscrupulous pirate in Canada or elsewhere to publish especially for circulation in this country a free-lance periodical which might gather month by month the choicest copyright stories and contributions of the best American authors and sell them broadcast without respect to authors' rights or remuneration.

The third session of the Copyright Conference which it was expected would be held in Washington during January has been from time to time deferred until some of the questions at issue could be clearly settled by consultation among the interests concerned, but it is now announced for Tuesday, March 13.

INCONSISTENCIES IN JUDGE SANBORN'S COPYRIGHT DECISIONS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: The leading editorial in your issue of February 10 has attracted considerable attention in the trade and has been the subject of general comment among publishers and book dealers in Chicago. But some of the points covered in the decision of Judge Sanborn, and some of the conclusions drawn by you in the editorial commenting thereon, have brought forth opinions from various publishers in Chicago that do not always coincide. As was remarked by one of the Chicago publishers to me while reading from a copy of your issue of February 10, as follows:

"The decision of Judge Sanborn in Chicago . . . is a most important contribution to the settlement of the specific question of 'abandonment' of copyright."

"Important contribution," said the publisher referred to, "Yes, a very important contribution, but it reminds me of the stranger who went into a negro church and dropped a hundred dollar counterfeit bill in the hat that was passed around. That was an 'important contribution,' but it was a counterfeit," and continuing, he elucidated as follows: "I have very carefully gone over Judge Sanborn's decision and conclude that he is certain to be reversed on appeal, and I may say that my attorney, to whom I have submitted the matter, agrees with me perfectly in that conclusion, for several reasons among which the following stand out prominently:

Judge Sanborn doubtless knows considerable law, otherwise it is not likely that he would be a United States Circuit Court Judge, but it would appear that he has several things to learn about the publishing business, for his decision contains the following sentence:

"If the notice of copyright is to be given in connection with each separate article published in a magazine and not once for all contained in it, the language used to prescribe a duty of giving notice is not well adapted to the object sought; for how is it possible to insert a notice on the title-page, not of a periodical, but of an article? The latter may have a title but hardly a title-page, while the former has both."

This reasoning seems to be specious. If it is correct, A. Conan Doyle's most recent production—"Sir Nigel," which is now being published by the Associated Sunday Magazines, has not a valid copyright, for the notice of copyright taken out by A. Conan Doyle does not appear on the "title-page" of the magazine, but it appears in connection with each installment of the story, as it appears in that magazine, and in accordance with the judge's decision there is not a valid copyright on all of that portion of it, which has already been printed. The same is true of a recent story of Rudyard Kipling's, entitled "The Monkey Puzzlers," that appeared in Collier's Weekly. Rudyard Kipling's notice of copyright did not appear on the title-page of Collier's Weekly, but it did appear on the page on which the story was, under the title of the story. Instances of similar copyright notice will occur to everyone who reads this communication, and yet if the judge's decision is correct, not a single one of those notices is a valid notice of copyright.

It has always been assumed by people at all familiar with the so-called International Copyright Law, that simultaneous publication in this country and Great Britain was essentially a prerequisite to acquiring a valid copyright, and yet Judge Sanborn in his decision upholds the copyright and admits that simultaneous publication was not secured, and goes into detail as to the particular chapters which were published abroad before they were published in this country. He also states that the January, 1904, number of Harper's Magazine was copyrighted in July, 1903, and that the book when published complete did not contain a 1903 notice. A decision is to be found in the law books (Callahan v. Myers) that makes such a copyright as that of no value, as an attempt to extend a copyright for a year beyond the term allowed by the law vitiates the copyright on any article on which such a notice is printed.

According to the construction given the law by Judge Sanborn (as he decided in effect that the 1903 notice was not necessary in the book when published complete), any person can publish a story serially in a magazine and five years later, or twenty-five years later, if they desire so to do, can publish the same story in book form; take out a copyright on the book ignoring the copyright on the magazine, and still maintain their exclusive right for a period of twenty-eight years from the day of taking out a copyright on the book. Such a decision as this, and the line of reasoning that enabled the judge to reach the decision he did, are tempting to analytical comment, but it would seem to me that the humor of such a decision is quite apparent and the conclusions to be drawn from it can safely be left to the intelligence of those engaged in the book publishing business.

Judge Sanborn, quoting from a previous decision, says in effect, that the Chicago Tribune cannot secure a valid copyright on matter that is sent by cable to this country from the London Times, although it is published with the required copyright notice in this country and is published without that notice in the London Times, and yet if the matter is brought into this country in material form, in the shape of a book or magazine, instead of in immaterial form in the shape of a telegraphic message, a copyright will hold, and that no one but the person who has taken out the supposed copyright will be permitted to publish the matter, irrespective of the fact that it was published in Great Britain without the required notice.

He also says that if "The Masqueraders" copyright had been taken out by Katherine Cecil Thurston "any publication by her, in any form in Great Britain, omitting the required notice, would have destroyed" all of her rights, which is in effect a decision that an agent can be given greater rights than his principal possesses. If his decision covering this point is correct, and if the conclusion drawn therefrom is not so, how is it possible for her to get someone else to take out a copyright for her and by so doing evade an obligation that was imposed upon her originally?

Judge Sanborn's decision contains a quotation of that portion of Section 4956 of the copyright law that suited his purpose, but it is a misquotation. That portion which he quoted from Section 4956 is only a part of the sentence, and he failed to notice, or deliberately disregarded, the fact that the exceptions which followed his quotation make the act of importing copies of books printed abroad a strictly legal act, whereas the portion quoted by him without the context makes such importation illegal, and on that misquotation he based a decision and comments thereon to the effect that the "defendants are within the condemnation of the law and they cannot be allowed to found legal rights on acts made unlawful by being prohibited," which are not prohibited under the law.

It is not considered likely by those who know both sides of the questions involved that such a decision as is this one, the logic of which the judge is "not satisfied with himself," will stand when appealed from.

The only comments I personally have to make on your editorial are these:

First.—The editorial refers to "Harper v. Donohue" and I think it is unfair to Donohue not to have the trade know that whatever responsibility is attached to the publication of the Chicago edition of "The Masqueraders" is not Donohue's alone, but is equally my responsibility. I have no desire to evade the responsibility, or issue, in any way whatever, and I desire, in fairness to them, to have the whole truth known.

Second.—The supposition ordinarily is that when a judge cites cases in support of a position he takes, those cases have been decided in accordance with the conclusions that he himself had reached in the case at bar. One of the cases cited by Judge Sanborn is Haggard v. Waverly Pub. Co., which is cited not from a law book, but from a book on copyright written by a layman, not a lawyer, in which the layman, as a caption to his article, does not settle it, but asks the question: "Does the requirement of the United States law concerning the printing of the notice of copyright apply to the foreign as well as the American editions?"

The facts as applied to that particular case were as follows: The Waverly Pub. Co. issued "Nada the Lily," a book published by Longmans, Green & Co. in Great Britain and the United States, omitting from the foreign edition the notice required by the United States statute. Suit was brought in April, 1894, to restrain the publication of the Waverly Publishing Co's. edition. The record in the United States Court in Trenton, N. J., where suit was brought, shows that the application for preliminary injunction was denied. Final decision was never rendered, and in fact the case was never tried. I sought out the attorney for the Waverly Pub. Co. in that case, and ascertained from him that the publication of "Nada the Lily continued uninterruptedly; that Longmans, Green & Co. did not push the case as they felt that they had lost it before it was tried, and had other matters of more importance than that particular book, that they did not want interfered with, that would have been interfered with had a decision adverse to their interests been rendered in that case. Notwithstanding these facts Judge Sanborn cited that case as one of those on which he based his reason for deciding against the publication of "The Masqueraders" by Donohue & Ogilvie.

That a settlement of the questions involved in "The Masqueraders" litigation is essential to the future security of those engaged in the publishing business is a statement that will be generally accepted as true, but that Judge Sanborn's decision has settled anything I think will be not admitted when the decision is dissected and compared one part with another and all of it with previous decisions and the law covering the points that were submitted to him for decision.

GEO. W. OGILVIE.

CHICAGO, ILL., February 15, 1906.

IMPORTATION OF COPYRIGHT BOOKS.

The Library Journal for February gives a very full account of the conference of the representatives of the American Library Association with a delegation of the American Publishers' Copyright League in regard to the provisions for importing copyright books in the proposed amended copyright law, held last month at the Mercantile Library in New York City. The views of both sides are given in full together with the texts of the existing law and the substitutes proposed.

It is understood that the following statement adopted by the Council of the American [authors'] Copyright League at its meeting on February 13, indicates a compromise which will be accepted officially by the representatives both of the publishers and the librarians' organizations:

The American Copyright League, representing the authors of literary, dramatic, musical, artistic and cognate works, maintains that the copyright protection in the property created by such authors should justly and logically include the right to sell or control such works for any specified time or territory or under any specified conditions, either directly or through their assigns, publisher or publishers, and therefore the League holds that the author should be able to sell the American market, the English market, and any other markets separately, and to assure each market against importations from other markets of the work thus sold. It therefore maintains, as a matter of right and justice, that the importation of foreign editions should be prohibited, as is the case in other countries, except by consent of the author or copyright proprietor; but in view of existing law and conditions, and especially of the inclusion in our copyright law of the manufacturing clause, it is prepared to recommend to authors the concession of general permission to import copies of authorized foreign editions under the circumstances scheduled as follows:

During the existence of the copyright in any work or of ad interim protection, any copies produced without the authorization of the author or copyright proprietor, or any copies of a periodical containing unauthorized reprint from any copyrighted work, should be considered fraudulent and illegal, and the importation of such fraudulent copies into the United States prohibited.

During the existence of the copyright in any book or of ad interim protection, the importation of copies of authorized foreign editions into the United States should be prohibited, except in the case of:

(a) Periodicals containing portions of such work printed by arrangement with the author;

(b) A work in a language or languages other than English prior to the production of an edition in the original language in the United States under copyright protection;

(c) Books in raised characters for the use of the blind;

(d) A work of which the American edition is out of print, so long as that condition exists and it cannot be procured from the copyright proprietor or the American publisher;

(e) Copies imported by the authority and for the use of the United States Government or the Library of Congress;

(f) Single copies forming part of a library or collection purchased abroad in good faith for public use and not for sale or of household effects in use abroad for more than one year, or of personal baggage;

(g) Single copies imported from the country of original authorship only by a public library, or other incorporated educational or other institution for public culture;

(h) Single copies imported for use and not for sale on the written consent of the copyright proprietor;

but copies imported as above may not lawfully be used in any way to violate the rights of the copyright proprietor or limit or annul the copyright protection provided by this act, and such unlawful use shall be deemed an infringement of copyright.

PROTECTION TO AUTHORS NOT A "MONOPOLY."

THE following correspondence between the head of one of the prominent libraries in the country and Mr. George Haven Putnam, one of the leading movers in copyright reform, will be found interesting and important as presenting a lucid and eminently fair statement of the difference between the protection afforded to an author under the copyright law and the operation of a "monopoly" in the commonly-accepted sense of the word:

DEAR MR. PUTNAM: . . . The argument that the more perfect the "monopoly," or the higher the protective tariff, the better and cheaper the people can be served, and the higher the wages that can be paid to the workmen, is one that is quite familiar to me. No doubt the reply, based on experience, is equally familiar to you, so I need not state it.

As a librarian I feel it my duty to protect the interests of the readers and students of the New York Public Library to the best of my ability. If those interests are not interfered with by the proposed Copyright bill, I do not consider it my duty to oppose it, although I do not approve of the protective principles which underlie it. I think it would be proper to give the great reference libraries of the country—say the ten having 350,000 volumes or upward—greater facilities for obtaining certain kinds of books than the small town libraries; but I can see that it would be difficult to do so.

— — —, Librarian — — —.

DEAR SIR: The suggestion in your letter of the 15th inst. that the control or "monopoly" assigned to an author under copyright law is akin to the monopoly secured under a protective tariff by the producers of certain favored articles, is an impression with which I had to contend in Congress during the long fight for the International Copyright bill.

I may mention that I am myself a free trader, and I have, since I have been a voter after returning from the army, put in continuous labor on behalf of all measures looking towards the elimination, or, at least, the amelioration, of the protective tariff system. I am myself of opinion that a government goes beyond its functions when it undertakes to interfere with business conditions and to take money from the pockets of the people, or from the pockets of one group of the people, other than the funds that are required for maintaining its own machinery and the national dignity.

I point out, however, that under the theory of free trade, it is proposed to secure for the producer of an article, the control (or, if you will, the "monopoly") of such article and the right to make sale of the same throughout all the territories of the world, with a minimum of restrictions on the ground of political boundaries; and it is further claimed that, whatever be the "country of origin" of the producer, he should be entitled to secure in each civilized state, the full "protection" of the law of that state. The "protection," however, that he desires, is not that which is provided under the Dingley system. He does not claim to interfere with the rights of any other producer to produce similar articles or to bring similar articles into competition in any of the markets in which his own article is offered. He wants merely the protection of the "policeman" to prevent any one from taking away any portion of the property value of his own article.

In connection with the poverty of the English language, the same term "protection" is unfortunately applied to two very different things. When it is claimed, however, that the protection that the author desires under the law is the protection which Mr. Carnegie secured for his steel products, the comparison is as if one should say that the Spring of the year is the same thing as the spring of a watch.

"Monopoly" means, of course, the sole right to sell; but the author who has secured the sole right to sell his treatise on the Universe, or his history of the United States, does not undertake to interfere, and has never under any copyright law been permitted to interfere, with the claim of some other producer to make sale of a competing study of the Universe or a history of the United States.

In this respect, his claim is of course more modest than that of the owner of the patent, as the manufacturer of a sewing machine, for instance, does all that is practicable to prevent competition in his own markets of any other sewing machines.

The legislators who have framed copyright laws in all the civilized states of the world have decided, after very full argument, that the advantage to the community in the incentive for literary production in giving a "monopoly" or sole right of sale to the producer, more than offsets any possible inconvenience or disadvantage to the community in the limitation of the rights of the consumer to utilize, excepting under such restrictions as the producer may impose, the article in question.

Copyright law starts, therefore, with the assumption that there is to be complete control of the property.

Those who insist that, under any special conditions obtaining in a particular country like the United States, it is in order to interfere with the author's complete control, or to restrict his property right, have upon them the burden of proof, first, to show that there are such special conditions as make the United States different from other countries in regard to literature, and second, that less injustice and less disadvantage to all interested will be caused by restricting or by impairing the property rights of the producer than by leaving him in full control of his article.

With considerations of this kind, I was able, between 1886 and 1891, to make clear to free trade leaders in Congress that copyright was in direct line with the principles of free trade. I am very sorry to learn that, sixteen years later, a man of your influence in the community is again bringing forward the same old suggestion that copyright "monopoly" and Dingley tariff "monopoly" belong to the same class of burdens.

NEW YORK, February 16, 1906.

DID DEAN SWIFT MARRY STELLA?

ACCORDING to a special despatch to the New York Sun, the discovery of an unpublished letter in the library of Christ Church, Oxford, seems to clear up the literary mystery of Dean Swift's relations with Stella. The letter, according to the Sun, "was written by the Rev.

Dr. Evans, Bishop of Meath, to Archbishop Wake, and is dated July 27, 1723. The Bishop writes:

"There was reported to be a promise of marriage between a young woman named Miss Van Omrig and the Dean. She designed to give him all her fortune, which was about £5000, but on discovering that the Dean had already been married to Mrs. Johnson, daughter of Sir William Temple, she became indignant and made a new will.

"The letter corroborates in detail the information as to Stella's announcement of the marriage and her wish that the correspondence with Dean Swift should be published, a request with which her executors refused to comply. Altogether the letter makes the evidence of Dean Swift's marriage too strong to resist."

There will be, however, many people who will continue to believe that Swift was not married to Stella until the legal documents are brought to light.

THE GERMAN BOOKTRADE.

ACCORDING to the statistics given in the latest edition, (the sixty-eighth annual issue,) of the German booktrade directory, formerly known as "Schulz's Addressbuch," there are now 11,247 firms established in 2122 cities and towns of the world having a representative in Leipzig. These are approximately divided as follows:

German.....	8752	firms in	1457	towns.
Austro-Hungarian..	1001	"	289	"
Swiss.....	327	"	74	"
In other countries of Europe.....	917	"	216	"
In America.....	187	"	52	"
In Africa.....	20	"	10	"
In Asia.....	31	"	15	"
In Australia.....	12	"	9	"

It may not be generally known, to quote the translation made by the London Publishers' Circular, that in Germany bookshops, as well as publishing houses, are not limited to the principal cities but are scattered all over the empire, and often found in very small places; to order all the books direct would be too expensive, thus the supply has to be specially organized.

The centre of the book trade in general is Leipzig; of 2994 principal German publishers 2886 keep stock there. Every publisher and every bookseller has an agent in this town with whom all business transactions are carried out. Booksellers, as a rule, send their order to their agent in Leipzig, who transfers them to the corresponding publishers' agents in that city. The books, which otherwise would have to be posted direct in as many small parcels, are thus collected in Leipzig and sent to the different booksellers in one lot.

As already stated, the centre for the universal book trade is Leipzig, but in order to facilitate and accelerate business many publishers keep stock in other transit places and trade centres as well. According to the statistics in the new directory there are 10 booksellers' agencies in Berlin, 13 in Budapest, 117 in Leipzig, 5 in Prague, 11 in Stuttgart, 30 in Vienna, and 5 in Zurich. Some other figures may be of interest as well. Germany contains 348 publishing houses devoted solely to art publications, and 419 to music; 147 shops specialize in the sale of new books, and 515 in the sale of music; 224 sell only second-hand books, the number of second-hand dealers who sell other books as well amounts to 1640. There are 1678 lending libraries conducted by booksellers, and 396 reading clubs. The number of booksellers who also sell objects of art, or music, or have a lending library, etc., of any kind, or are also publishers, amounts to 6600.

COMPROMISE ON CANADIAN TAX ON COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS.

IN partial response to public opinion the Government of the Province of Quebec have reduced their obnoxious tax on commercial travellers from $300 to $100. In commenting on this action the Toronto Bookseller and Stationer says: "Although this is a partial relief it does not cover the whole case. The objection which The Bookseller and Stationer has consistently made to the tax is that the principle is bad and detrimental to business. The burden is somewhat relieved by lessening the amount, but the unfairness is present just the same as before.

"When the tax came up for unfavorable criticism some months ago, the Provincial Treasurer stated that the Government needed money and that this was a legitimate means of raising it. Whatever may have been the revenue to the Province before, at its present figure it cannot yield a sum worthy of consideration. Why not make the surrender complete? We cannot believe that the Province of Quebec is willing to hear the reproach of raising up barriers to trade which have long been discredited by practically the whole world, nor that it is anxious to arouse the ill will of the enterprising countries who seek foreign business.

"Mention need only be made of the resolutions of the British chambers of commerce and of Canadian bodies such as the Dominion Commercial Travellers' Association and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to show that intense hostility is felt. In fairness to her own merchants and to the merchants of Canada at large, we urge the Government of the Province of Quebec to consider still further this tax and complete the good work which has already been begun." The tax, we learn, applies only to commercial travellers in the Province of Quebec.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

REPRESENTATIVES of the American Booksellers' Association, the Booksellers' League, the Boost Club and the Brotherhood of Commercial Travellers met at the office of the secretary of the American Booksellers' Association, to discuss the arrangements for the annual dinner of the Association. Charles A. Burkhardt was elected president; Francis Gilman, secretary, and J. W. Nichols, treasurer. The following committees were appointed:

Committee of Arrangements.—Harry F.

Davis, J. W. Nichols and Charles A. Burkhardt.

Reception Committee.—A. Wessels, E. B. Hackett, Myles Standish, Francis Gilman, John Hovendon, A. P. Jackson, W. A. Ansley, W. E. Smith, Simon Brentano, Charles Walton, C. E. Butler and A. Growoll.

Printing Committee.—Harry F. Davis, C. E. Butler and A. Eckle.

Committee on Tickets.—J. W. Nichols, C. E. Butler and A. Eckle.

Press Committee.—A. Growoll, Charles C. Walden, E. O. Chapman, H. Calkins, Jr., Andrew Geyer, W. E. Price and H. J. Berger.

The dinner will be given at the Aldine Association, 111 Fifth Avenue, New York City, on the evening of May 16, at 6:30 sharp, the reception beginning at 6 o'clock. The price of the tickets has been fixed at $2.50 the plate.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE annual meeting of the Booksellers' League will be held on the evening of March 14 at the Aldine Association. On that occasion the report of the year's work will be submitted and the election of president and twelve new members of the Board of Managers will take place. The usual dinner will precede the business meeting and several speakers will entertain the League after the election has taken place.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

READERS of literary gossip may have forgotten, though it was made known at the time of the great success of "Quo Vadis," that Henryk Sienkiewicz spent some time in this country. He was one of a little band of Polish patriots, among whom were Mme. Modjeska and her husband, Count Rozenta, who bought a ranch in California and started what might be called a Polish Brook Farm. It was a co-operative society, but as all its members were geniuses it suffered for want of practical management. Sienkiewicz did not stay very long in this country, but went back to Poland, where he published a few short stories with America as their background.

PERCEVAL GIBBON, author of "Vrouw Groelaar and Her Leading Cases," those tales of the Veldt which have earned for him the title of "The Kipling of the Kraal," is a Welshman, the son of a Nonconformist clergyman, and was born in Carnarvon about thirty years ago. He left school at an early age to go to sea, working before the mast on a French liner, seeing all parts of the globe and meeting with many exciting experiences. He returned to London to go into journalism and went out to South Africa to act as correspondent for London papers. He served through the war, was five times captured and imprisoned and remained in South Africa after the fighting was finished, prospecting for gold, shooting big game and gathering the material for his stories. He was a correspondent for a London paper at St. Petersburg during the Russo-Japanese War and during the recent revolutionary outbreak in Russia.

OBITUARY NOTES.

LEONARD KIP, author of "The Dead Marquise," "Under the Bells," "Hannibal's Man, and Other Stories," "California Sketches," etc., died in Albany, N. Y., February 15. Mr. Kip was born in New York City, September 13, 1826.

JOSEPH ARTHUR, the author of "The Still Alarm," "Blue Jeans," and other spectacular plays, died in New York City on February 20. Mr. Arthur was born in Centreville, Md., in 1848, and was the son of a Methodist clergyman. At an early age he took up newspaper work, and travelled in Japan, India and China, serving in Afghanistan with the British army. He then became an actor, and later devoted his entire time to the production of melodramas. Joseph Arthur was the playwright's stage name, his real name being Arthur Smith.

JAMES A. WINEBERGER, for many years proprietor of the Ebbitt House book and newsstand, Washington, D. C., died at his home in that city February 1, aged 85 years. Mr. Wineberger was born in Washington in 1821. Many years ago he published a book "Social Life in Washington," by "Mrs. Grundy," and for many years his "Map of Washington and Its Environs" had a popular sale. Mr. Wineberger was regarded as one of the best-informed men on history in the District, and collected a large amount of unpublished data regarding the early days of Washington.

PERSONAL NOTES.

A. ECKLE, formerly connected with the book department of the Siegel-Cooper Company, is now buyer in the book department of the Adams Dry Goods Company, of New York City.

W. B. WENTWORTH, who for the past ten years has been so closely identified with the church booktrade of New England, has associated himself with the H. M. Upham Company, of Boston.

H. S. STOLL, formerly with the Stitt Publishing Company, during the coming season will represent A. Wessels Company through the South and middle West. The Wessels Company, as already announced, has just made arrangements to issue "The Leopard's Spots," by Thomas Dixon, Jr.; "The Pit," by Frank Norris, and a number of other leading copyrights at popular prices.

CHARLES DWYER, editor of The Delineator, has resigned and will retire from the management of the magazine in about three months. A question of policy arose between Mr. Dwyer and the Butterick Publishing Company, which runs the magazine. Mr. Dwyer joined the staff of The Delineator in 1881, and in 1885 succeeded R. S. O. Loughlin, the present president of the Butterick Publishing Company, as editor. Under him the magazine has grown from a small publication devoted entirely to fashions to the magazine that it now is.

J. H. TEWKSBURY, well known among the trade as the business manager and treasurer of the Pilgrim Press at Boston and Chicago, will sever his connection with that house on March 1. Resolutions passed by the directors of the Pilgrim Press testify to Mr. Tewksbury's success in developing the business and increasing its earnings, also to his fidelity to his important trust. His successful experience in manufacturing, advertising and systematizing counting-room work as well as in buying and selling books suggest him as a valuable accession to the force of any publishing house with which he may associate himself. He will be succeeded by L. H. Cary, recently manager of the San Francisco branch of the Presbyterian Board of Publication.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AUGUSTA, GA.—"The New and Old Bookshop" of A. W. Dellquest Book Co., located in the Leonard Building, was partially destroyed by fire on February 16, and suffered some damage by water, all, however, covered by insurance. The business has been resumed in the same quarters.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.—The Hook View Book and Stationery Company has been succeeded by William R. McCoy.

MASON CITY, IA.—Charles E. Mann's bookstore was burned out on February 12.

NEW YORK CITY.—John Dickinson & Co., Ltd., paper manufacturers, have sold out to the Perkins, Goodwin Co., at 72 Fifth Avenue, John Atkins, the manager, and George F. Brown and Stephen J. Delanoy having joined the staff of the Perkins, Goodwin Co.

OSKALOOSA, IA.—Hugg & Ryan, booksellers, and stationers, have sold out to Crissey & Crissey.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE J. K. WATERS COMPANY, Boston, announce a new book by Charles Felton Pidgin, entitled "Sarah Bernhardt Brown."

THE J. S. OGILVIE PUBLISHING COMPANY announce a translation of Sienkiewicz's "The Field of Glory," made from the Polish by Herman Bernstein.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. announce a new story by Mrs. Henry de la Pasture, author of "Peter's Mother," entitled "The Man from America: a Sentimental Comedy."

LEONARD SMITHERS, the publisher of the defunct Savoy, remembers that if he sold 300 copies of any book with Aubrey Beardsley's illustrations he "was overjoyed." Now, he adds, "they all fetch a considerable premium on the moderate prices at which they were originally issued."

DAVID MCKAY has purchased from Street & Smith their Boy's Own Library, including 140 volumes and two unpublished titles to be announced later. Mr. McKay has also taken the agency for the sale of the Cassell Dictionaries—French, German and Latin—and hopes to have complete lines ready shortly for the trade.

B. W. DODGE & Co., who have just opened up at 43 East Nineteenth Street, New York, have published a detective story entitled "The One Who Saw." They announce for immediate publication a new book by Charles

Felton Pidgin, author of "Quincy Adams Sawyer," etc., to be entitled "The Corsican Lovers."

THE REILLY & BRITTON COMPANY will publish in April Schuyler Staunton's new novel, "Daughters of Destiny." It will contain eight illustrations in color, three by Thomas Mitchell Peirce, five by Harold DeLay. Mr. Staunton will spend the remainder of the winter in Rio de Janeiro the guest of General Fonseca who figured in his previous novel, "The Fate of a Crown."

JOHN W. LUCE & Co. have just brought out a clever novel entitled "The Girl in Waiting," by Archibald Eyre, which is described as "droll a little comedy of misunderstanding as the gloomiest reader can possibly need." They will publish early next month Charles Town's "Foolish Etiquette," publication of which was delayed by the preparations for the author's wedding last week.

SINCE Brand Whitlock was elected mayor of Toledo on an independent ticket, the revival of interest in his books has been so great that the publishers have been compelled to bring out a new edition of "The 13th District." This story, it will be recalled, was highly praised by Grover Cleveland, and was characterized by William Dean Howells as one of the best American political novels ever written.

THE C. M. CLARK PUBLISHING COMPANY have in preparation a rather sensational novel by Harvey Reynolds, entitled "Out of the Ashes," which deals with a divorce in a straightforward manner, and suggests a solution to the problem; also, "Four Girls," a charming little story of the struggles, romances and triumphs of four young women just out of college, by a new writer, Mary Rodney.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY have postponed the publication of "How to Buy Life Insurance," by "Q. P.," and "Recollections of Thirteen Presidents," by Capt. John S. Wise, until early in March. They will bring out in April a novel entitled "A Woman's Heart," by Olive Ransom, a revelation in letters, of a woman's passionate love for a priest, in which monastic celibacy is attacked from every conceivable standpoint.

GUIDO BIAGI, librarian of the Laurentian Library at Florence, in summing up, in the London Athenaeum, the year's literary harvest in Italy, speaking of the output of fiction, says: "Women have begun to invade the field, and save for easily counted exceptions, feminine handiwork, unless it bears the name of Matilde Serao, is decadent and feeble, because women are, at least amongst us, more adapted to make romances than to write them."

HUTCHINSON & Co., London, have in preparation a work entitled "Antoinette Sterling and Other Celebrities," written by the son of Antoinette Sterling, H. S. Mackinlay. Miss Sterling, the well-remembered contralto singer, was long one of the leaders of the choir in Plymouth Church, in Henry Ward Beecher's days. After her marriage to Mr. Mackinlay she went to England where her later days were spent. She was one of Queen

Victoria's favorite singers and knew many famous people by whom she was highly esteemed.

D. C. HEATH & Co. announce a new book by Professor Webster Wells, entitled "Algebra for Secondary Schools," which is intended to meet the needs of the most progressive preparatory schools. They also announce Mansion's "First Year of French for Young Beginners," consisting of grammar, reading, exercise work and composition, the grammar being limited to the most easy tenses of the indicative mood and the essential components of the simple sentence; also, the "Méthode Hénin," by Mr. Hénin, instructor in St. George's School, Newport, R. I., a series of conversations based on limited vocabularies.

T. FISHER UNWIN, London, has just brought out, in two illustrated volumes, "The History of Co-operation," which G. J. Holyoake completed just before his death. The book relates the story of co-operation from its first beginnings to the present day. Mr. Holyoake was the last survivor of the Social Missionaries appointed in 1841 to explain Robert Owen's system, and his book has exceptional interest and value in that he was closely connected with the men who made the movement, and describes their vicissitudes, their principles and their hopes. The history contains many picturesque and dramatic incidents.

FREDERICK WARNE & Co. will publish shortly in the Newnes's Art Library a volume on "Fra Angelico," with 64 full-page reproductions of his works and a brief but illuminating memoir by Edgcombe Staley. Other volumes in this series will be "Ingres," the noted French painter of classical subjects; "Eugene Delacroix," "The Paintings of Michael Angelo," and "Giovanni Bellini." They have also in preparation a novel handbook to be entitled "The Green Room, or, Who's Who on the Stage." This work is to be a permanent record of the international dramatic, musical and variety world, and will be adequately illustrated.

MARTIN HUME, who has recently added "The Wives of Henry VIII." to his historical series, which contains already "The Love Affairs of Mary, Queen of Scots," and "The Courtships of Queen Elizabeth," is at work upon a new novel, which will consist of the strange and romantic stories of some of the early queens of Spain, drawn for the most part, as has been the case in all his other volumes, from unpublished sources. The share of Isabella in the expedition of Columbus, the attitude of Elizabeth Balles towards her stepson, Carlos, the action of Elizabeth of Bourbon in the overthrow of Olivares, and the vagaries of Louisa Isabel of Orleans will be discussed in this volume.

SHAKESPEARE's nationality—if not his identity—seems at last to have been determined—at least the weight of the great authority on underselling, who undersells everything and everybody—who undersells even himself—makes him out a German. While he is not actually catalogued under Wilhelm Schwenk-den-Spiess, his works for the past week in all the advertisements of the great underseller appear under the heading of Standard German Books. A comparison of the underseller's prices of German books with the current lists of the importers, by the way, lead us to believe that he must have forgotten his German, else he would have fixed his prices lower. He has forgotten to undersell!

MOFFAT, YARD & Co. have made an arrangement with Charles Schreyvogel which places under their control the sale of the prints of the celebrated Schreyvogel pictures of frontier life, numbering twenty-seven subjects, including a picture nearly ready for publication. The new picture, to be ready early next month, is entitled "Saving Their Lieutenant," and shows several veteran troopers carrying away from a pursuing body of Indians their young commander, whose first expedition, after leaving West Point, has resulted in disaster to his troop and a serious wound to himself. One wiry American soldier has the wounded boy thrown across his galloping horse, while he, turning round in his saddle, fires his revolver at their pursuers. He is flanked by other troopers in superb action.

THE BUREAU OF COMMERCE AND LABOR, at Washington, D. C., is preparing a report covering the various systems of workingmen's insurance and employers' liability both in this country and abroad. The report will cover insurance against sickness, accident, disability, old age, death and unemployment. In this connection it is soliciting information concerning the existence in the United States of what are usually known as establishment funds—that is, mutual relief or insurance funds organized and maintained by the employees of an industrial establishment, or relief funds supported either wholly or in part by the employers themselves. It is desired to obtain, wherever possible, copies of constitutions, rules and by-laws, blank certificate forms, and any other matter relating to funds of this character. In the absence of other data the name and location of establishments in which such funds exist are desired.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish about the middle of March "The Log of a Sea Angler," by Charles F. Holder, who has written a book on sea angling that ought to create a sensation among sportsmen. Encouraged by the exceptional success which attended the publication in the original of Xavier de Maistre's "Voyage Autour de Ma Chambre" in the series of Riverside Press editions, Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will now bring out Bernardin de Saint-Pierre's "Paul et Virginie," the most famous of French romances, in the French text of the original first edition. The new edition is set in type of Didot style, imported from Paris, and is embellished with reproductions of the engravings in the first French edition. These illustrations are not facsimiles, but have been engraved on wood by M. Lamont Brown and are mounted Japan-paper proofs. The binding is of decorated French paper boards with paper label. The edition is limited to 280 numbered copies, 250 for sale.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. are preparing a special limited quarto edition of "The Triumphs" of Petrarch, translated by Henry Boyd, with an introduction by Dr. Guido Biagi, librarian of the Royal Laurentian Library at Florence. The work is printed from a new font of "Humanistic" type, carefully set at the University Press, and the press work has been done with great care. The six illustrations, concerning which Sidney Colvin furnishes a paper, are reproduced from a set of Florentine engravings in the British Museum and are printed on paper especially manufactured in Italy. One hundred numbered copies are for sale in the United States, with initials hand-embossed in gold, and a binding of leather blind-stamped in a fourteenth century design. Twenty numbered copies are printed on parchment with a full page facsimile of a page of Florentine Humanistic printing with illuminated initials executed by Attilio Formilli, of Florence. The Humanistic type was described in a recent issue of The Printing Art.

CUPPLES & LEON, New York City, have in preparation three volumes in the Motor Boys Series, by Clarence Young, entitled "The Motor Boys, or, Chums Through Thick and Thin," "The Motor Boys Overland, or, A Long Trip for Fun and Fortune," and "The Motor Boys in Mexico, or, the Secret of the Buried City." Each volume will be illustrated and bound. In the Boys of Business Series, by Allen Chapman, they will bring out "The Young Express Agent," and "Two Boy Publishers." In the Boy Hunters Series they will bring out a book by Captain Ralph Bonehill, entitled "Four Boy Hunters, or, the Outing of the Gun Club." Other publications under way are a tale of adventure, by Roy Rockwood, entitled "Through the Air to the North Pole," "Joe, the Hotel Boy," by Horatio Alger, Jr.; and "Cupid's Middleman," a new book of romance and humor, by Edward B. Lent, author of "Being Done Good." They also announce that they have made arrangements with the New York Herald to bring out in April "Buster Brown, His Dog Tige and Their Jolly Times at Uncle Jack's," and "Buddy Tucker and His Friends," both by R. F. Outcault.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish early in March "The Opal Sea," by Professor John C. Van Dyke, a brilliant poetic and scientific description of the sea in all its phases, which is in a way a pendant to his "The Desert," "The Prisoner of Ornith Farm," by Frances Powell, author of "The House on the Hudson," etc., a story of adventure of an exceedingly original and unexpected kind, the scene of which is laid in the neighborhood of New York and Long Island Sound; "The Day Dreamer," by Jesse Lynch Williams, the basis of which is the author's "The Stolen Story," described at the time it was published as the "best newspaper story ever written in this country," "Sir Walter Scott," by Andrew Lang, a new volume in the Literary Lives series; "Concerning Paul and Fiammetto," by L. Allen Harker, an amusing account of a number of delightful children; "A Romance of the Nursery," also by L. Allen Harker, in which the adventures of the children in "Concerning Paul and Fiammetto" are continued; "The Apostolic Age in the Light of Modern Criticism," by James Hardy Ropes, an able and authoritative work designed for laymen as well as scholars; a new and revised edition of Dr. Fisher's work on "The Reformation;" also, a uniform edition of Edith Wharton's "Sanctuary," "The Touchstone," "The Valley of Decision," "The Descent of Man," "The Greater Inclination," "Crucial Instances" and "The House of Mirth."

HENRY HOLT & COMPANY will issue this month the second and third volumes concluding Professors Chamberlin and Salisbury's monumental work on "Geology." These two volumes will be devoted to "Earth History," and in them Professor Chamberlin will elaborate his weighty criticisms of the nebular hypotheses. Each of these volumes will be as large as the first volume, which it may be remembered was devoted to "Geologic Processes." Among their announcements are "A Political History of the State of New York, 1777-1861, (in two volumes,) by the Hon. D. S. Alexander, who is said to have made a book that is not only historically accurate but vivified by noteworthy character sketches of such men as the Clintons, Hamilton, Burr, Van Buren, Seymour, Thurlow Weed, etc.; "Citizenship and the Schools," nine papers by Professor Jeremiah W. Jenks, of Cornell, presenting in a telling way various relations of education and politics; two volumes in the American Public Problems series—"Immigration and its Effects Upon the United States," by Prescott F. Hall, secretary of the Immigration Restriction League, and "The Election of Senators," by Professor G. H. Haynes, author of "Representation in State Legislatures;" "Heredity in Royalty," by Dr. Frederick Adams Wood, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a consideration of some 3300 persons, presenting an interesting estimate of the mental and moral status of all modern royal families, illustrated with over one hundred portraits; also, "An Atlas of European History," containing some 48 maps, 32 of them in colors, by Professor Earl W. Dow, of the University of Michigan.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplaced advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

The Finality of The Christian Religion GEORGE. B FOSTER

In a course of lectures delivered at Harvard in 1893 and 1894, Prof. Foster outlined an argument for the absolute value of Christianity which so impressed his hearers that he was urged to put it in permanent form. This he has at length done in "The Finality of the Christian Religion," a work which involves a destructive criticism of authority religion and a constructive treatment of Christianity as an inevitable outgrowth of human nature. The work has been awaited with great impatience. 530 pp., net $4.00, postpaid $4.22.

Ancient Records of Egypt JAMES H. BREASTED

A full and reliable source-book of Egyptian history is at last to appear. After ten years of labor, Prof. Breasted offers to Egyptologists and students of history a corpus of Egyptian inscriptions on a scale not previously attempted and with a degree of accuracy never before attained. The series is one of three now in preparation, the others being by Robert F. Harper (Assyria and Babylonia) and by the late William R. Harper (Palestine, Phœnicia and Syria). The entire collection, when completed, will be a monumental contribution to the history of the East. 4 vols., 8vo., 386, 450, 300, 560 pp. Advance price $3.00 net per volume. $4.20 postpaid.

General Sociology ALBION W. SMALL

Professor Small's main proposition is that the traditional sciences relating to the spiritual sides of life are sterile, unless they are carried out to a point at which they blend in one system of knowledge. The book is an exposition of the development of social theory from Spencer to Ratzenhofer, and a plea for the completion of the general structure of social science. 753 pp.; 8vo, cloth; net $4.00, postpaid $4.23.

A Decade of Civic Development CHARLES ZUEBLIN

The author gives a concise and spirited account of certain definite measures—political, economic, social, and artistic—for the betterment of American cities. Professor Zueblin was formerly president of the American League for Civic Improvement. He is the author of American Municipal Progress and other volumes. 200 pp.; 12mo, cloth; net $1.25, postpaid $1.35.

Russia and Its Crisis PAUL MILYOUKOV

An authoritative account of the whole situation in Russia by a man who, as scholar and politician, has had unsurpassed opportunities for observation. The book deals with the present crisis as the logical result of the entire history of Russia. It is thus a work of permanent importance and is already being recognized as a standard. 602 pp.; 8vo, cloth; net $3.00, postpaid $3.20.

Christian Belief Interpreted by Christian Experience CHARLES C. HALL

A series of lectures delivered in India, Ceylon, and China under the Barrows Lectureship. An attempt is made to point out the common foundation underlying all religions and to present the claims of Christianity to be regarded as the ultimate religion. The work has aroused enthusiastic admiration by its breadth of view, its nobility of tone, and the chaste beauty of its style. 300 pp.; 8vo, cloth; net $1.50, postpaid $1.66.

UPTON SINCLAIR

The Unforgettable Book of 1906

We publish the Jungle by Upton Sinclair on Mon., Feb. the 26th.

We know we have the most powerful book of the year.

We think we know how to make it one of your largest sellers.

We have sold several thousand copies in this country without any travelling representation to speak of.

We have sold also large editions to Canada, to Australia, and to England.

We sent copies to the trade because we wanted them to read the book before buying. The first mail, three days later, brought us orders ranging from one to one hundred copies.

We have printed twenty thousand books for the first edition.

We have made 85,000 circulars and several thousand striking posters, because we believe that The Jungle, a novel of Chicago's stockyards, is one of the most powerful and terrible stories ever written. It is a book which must go.

Periodicals and Book Trade Helps

ISSUED FROM

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY OFFICE

The Publishers' Weekly

Recognized as the representative of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States. Contains full weekly record of American publications, with monthly indexes, cumulated quarterly, news of interest concerning the book trade, lists of "Books Wanted," (an advertising feature which each subscriber can use without charge to the extent of 100 lines per year,) etc., etc. Subscription, $3.00 a year; to foreign countries, $4.00 a year.

The American Catalog, 1900-1905

Vol. I contains a five-year cumulation, Jan. 1, 1900-Jan. 1, 1905, giving in one alphabet, by author, title and subject, information of the books issued during the years covered by this period. It also contains a directory of over 3800 publishers, with street addresses. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50.

Vol. II or Supplementary volume gives the full-title entries with annotations printed in the Weekly Record of The Publishers' Weekly, cumulated into an alphabet for each year, i.e., into five alphabets 1900, 01, 02, 03, 04. This is planned to answer the demand of such libraries, bookdealers, and others as want the full material of The Publishers' Weekly bibliographical system in available shape. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50. The set of two, $12.

Of the previous series of THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE, quarto size, the earlier volumes are out of print. We have remaining a few copies of the volumes 1890-95 and 1895-1900, bound in half morocco, $15.00 each.

The Annual American Catalog, 1905

Contains in one alphabet a record of all books published that year, under author, title, subject and series entries; also under author's name an alphabetical list of the same titles with descriptive annotations from The Publishers' Weekly, etc. 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

The Publishers' Trade List Annual

Contains the latest catalogues of upward of 200 American publishers, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names, with smaller lists at the end of the volume. Indispensable to every one who has any interest in the sale or purchase of books. Large 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

Indexes to the Publishers' Trade List Annual. The original volume contains an index, by author, title and subject catchword to the lists of the 246 publishers represented in THE TRADE LIST ANNUAL for 1902. This, with The Supplementary Indexes for 1903-1904, in two alphabets (1589 8vo pages, double column, nonpareil type), can be had in cloth, with thumb indexes, price $7.00. (Only a few copies remain.)

The Supplementary Index, 1903-1904, 500 pages, 8vo, cloth, with thumb index, $3.00. The alphabet in this volume is supplementary to the original Index of 1902.

The American Educational Catalogue

Contains a price-list of the text-books in use in the United States, arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject. (Published annually.) 8vo, leatherette, 50 cents.

The Library Journal

Official Organ of the American Library Association. Chiefly devoted to library economy and bibliography. Established in 1876. Published monthly. Subscription $4.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 35 cents. Price to Europe or other countries in the Union, 16s. a year; single numbers, 1s. 6d.

The Library Index to Periodicals and Current Events

Published monthly, with a quarterly cumulation (indexing the periodicals taken in most libraries, large and small). Subscription, $3.00 per year. Single monthly numbers, 25 cents; quarterly numbers, 50 cents each.

The Annual Library Index

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc., Bibliographies, Necrology and Index to Dates of Principal Events. Edited, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of The Library Journal staff, by W. I. FLETCHER and H. E. HAINES. (Published annually) 8vo, cloth, $3.50.

English Catalogue of Books (Annual)

Containing a complete list of all the books published in Great Britain and Ireland in the calendar year, with index to subjects. (London, Sampson Low, Marston & Co.) 8vo, cloth, $1.50.

Directory of Publishers, 1905

Contains names and addresses of 3876 firms and individuals who issued books in the U. S. from Jan. 1, 1900 to Jan. 1, 1905. (Reprinted from The American Catalog.) 8vo, leatherette, red edges, $1.00.

The Profession of Bookselling

A handbook of practical hints for the apprentice and bookseller. By A. GROWOLL, managing editor of The Publishers' Weekly, author of "A Bookseller's Library." "Three Centuries of English Booktrade Bibliography," etc. Parts 1 and 2. 8vo boards, each $2.00. (Concluding part in preparation.)

Publications of Societies

A provisional list of the publications of American scientific, literary and other societies, from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Schedules nearly 1,000 societies issuing publications, and gives title-entries of all their publications, as far as data could be obtained from the societies and from libraries. 8vo, paper, $2.50; cloth, $3.00.

WESTERN STATES AND TERRITORIES:

Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, Dakota Territory, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, California, Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Indian Territory, Alaska, Hawaii.

Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER

Embracing provisional bibliographies of the official publications of the above-named States and Territories, from their organization. While the difficulties of compiling a bibliography of this sort at the present time make absolute completeness impossible, every effort has been made to obtain accuracy to the extent covered, by means of the coöperation in most of the States of the State Librarians, State University librarians, or officials of State Historical Societies.

ALREADY PUBLISHED

PART I: NEW ENGLAND STATES.—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut.

PART II: NORTH CENTRAL STATES.—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin.

The complete work, exceeding 800 pages, will be furnished at $10.00. Subscriptions will be received only for the whole work.

 But 500 copies have been printed and there are no plates. Only 148 copies remain unsubscribed.

The attention of State Libraries, of the central public libraries, and of foreign libraries, is especially called to this bibliography, but it is also important to that larger number of libraries which cannot undertake to collect the State publications even of their own State and yet should be able to inform students and inquirers as to what is to be found in the publications of their own State and of other States. What New York and Massachusetts are doing in forestry, for instance, is of importance in all States and to foreign students of the subject.
